TWENTIETH YEAR

GETTYSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, MAY 26th, 1922.

PRICE TWO CENTS

TO FILE REASONS WITHIN TEN DAYS

Defense Counsel For Convicted
Sheriff And Deputy to Strive For New Trial.

MAY APPEAL SENTENCE

Should Court Refuse New Hearing,
Belief is Sentence Will be Passed.
Officials Will Continue in Office.

With a verdict of guilty returned against Sheriff John W. Hartman and his father and deputy, H. J. Hartman, to the charge of gross negligence in office in allowing prisoners to escape, further disposition of the case now rests with the defense counsel and the Court. The first step in the procedure of the defendants was taken Thursday afternoon after hearing the verdict, when William Hersh, Esq., chief counsel for the convicted county officials, made a motion for a new trial.

According to Mr. Hersh, reasons why a new trial should be granted his clients, will be filed within the next ten days. Mr. Hersh would not divulge the exact reasons for asking for a new trial. These reasons will be presented to the Court, in all probability, on Monday, June 6, the next day scheduled for a session of Court.

Following their presentation to Court, Judge D. P. McPherson will set a date on which arguments will be heard for or against granting the motion for a new trial. Monday, June 19, is the next date on the court calendar for return days and argument court. It is possible, arguments presented by the defense will be heard at that time.

Should the Court decide there were reasons for a new trial the case may be retried in the local courts before a jury. Since the Court dismissed all the veniremen Thursday, at the conclusion of the case, from further attendance at this session, it is doubtful if this case would be tried before the regular August term of the Quarter Sessions. The expense of calling jurors before that time would be additional.

However, should the Court decide there are no reasons for a re-trial of the case, according to one authority, sentence will be imposed upon the county officers. In the meantime they will continue to hold their respective offices and discharge the duties of the office.

It is understood from defense counsel, that should the Court refuse a new trial, an appeal will be taken to the Appellate Courts of the State for review. One of two courses is open to this Court. Either they may uphold the sentence imposed by Judge McPherson or throw the case back upon the local courts for another trial.

In the meantime, the Commonwealth is resting on its oars, having secured a verdict of guilty. In view of the verdict, the Commonwealth decided that it was not necessary to try the second charge alleging the escape of Edwin Howell, while in the custody of the sheriff, consequently the latter charge was nolle prossed.

CROWDS ATTEND HOLIDAY RACES

Fully 4000 Persons Throng Attractions at York Springs, Ascension Day.

HELD SPIRITED RACES

Ball Game Between Aspers And Uriah
Side Attraction. More Than 1000
Automobiles Parked on Grounds.

Griest Park, York Springs, came nearer resembling a county fair grounds Tuesday than at any time in its history, when a crowd estimated at 4000 persons flooded the park to witness the annual Ascension Day horse races and ball game. This large gathering was brought to the park in more than 1000 automobiles which were parked on the grounds. In addition to the great number of machines, horse-drawn vehicles were also prominent. According to one authority, there were people present from every section of Adams county and from every county adjacent to it during the day.

The four races attracted the majority of spectators during the afternoon. The drivers, many of whom were from beyond the confines of the county, brought horses which succeeded in taking most of the laurels. Every race was won in straight heats. The horse, Henry Clay, driven by Zack Ford, Hunterstown, took the 2.35 pace in which Lew Hale, driven by Harry Deatrick, Hunterstown, was the favorite. This was the only race won by an Adams county horse. During the races, a Hanover orchestra played continually.

While the races were in progress, a ball game was played between Aspers and Uriah which the former won by the score 10-9 after the contest had waged thirteen innings. Uriah had things their way with the score 2-0 until the eighth inning, when Aspers made two runs. Both sides continued to score during the next five innings while Uriah dropped two chances to clinch the victory. The batteries were: Aspers: Lupp, Miller and Stanner; Uriah: Davis, Muller and Mullen.

The festival in the park during the evening was cut short by rain which (Continued on Fifth Page)

Following the nine movements, there was a formal guard mount and review. The judges for this event were Lieutenant Colonel William R. Taylor, Cavalry, United States Army, as senior judge, Clyde Bream and William G. Weaver, of Gettysburg.

COLOR SCHEME TO MARK HIGHWAYS

Routes on Highways Throughout Pennsylvania Will be Marked With Color Bands on Poles.

Within the next few days the State Highway Department will begin the distinctive marking of certain routes on Pennsylvania main highways, whereby color bands on poles will distinguish these routes from beginning to end. The road from the Maryland line through Gettysburg to Harrisburg will be a yellow route, the poles along that thoroughfare being marked with that color. Because the Lincoln Highway is already marked distinctively, it is not listed under this plan of the department.

The first trans-Pennsylvania route to be marked will be that connecting Philadelphia and the New York state line south of Binghamton via Easton, Stroudsburg, the Poconos and Scranton. The bands on the poles along this route will be blue.

In this route marking, three colors will be used—blue, red and yellow. The blue routes will cross the state from north to south; the red routes from east to west, and the yellow routes diagonally. The State Highway Department now white-washes to a height of six feet the poles on all highway routes. The new markings will be 12 inches in depth and will be placed only at crossroads, so that travelers will not turn from the main highways. On those poles marked with the color bands the whitewash will be only five feet in height, the color band making up the balance of the six feet.

The markings through municipalities will be cared for by the motor clubs and the Pennsylvania Motor Federation. At road intersections the pole markings will be found on the far side of the intersecting highways, on the proper side for traffic.

DECORATION DAY MARKERS ARRIVE

Will be Placed on The Graves of
The Dead of Three Conflicts.

TO HELP IN DISTRIBUTION

Consignment Received by County Commissioners Will Not Meet Demand. Flags For Graves.

Flags and markers for the graves of those who paid the supreme sacrifice in the Civil, Spanish-American and World War conflicts have been received by George W. Baker, Clerk of the County Commissioners, and are ready for distribution until Memorial Day, May 30. The donation of flags and emblematic markers for the graves of America's wars by the county commissioners in Pennsylvania, was authorized by an act of the State legislature in 1921.

The act empowers the commissioners to draw on the county treasury for such funds as are needed in the purchase of flags and markers. Last year was the first time this practice was in operation and met with the approval of the various patriotic orders connected with the three conflicts.

In the consignment, Mr. Baker received five gross of American flags, 25 Grand Army of the Republic markers, 12 World War markers and a number of markers for the graves of Spanish-American war veterans. The various markers will not be enough to place on the grave of each soldier of that particular war who lies buried in Adams county soil.

This year, as was the case last spring, the company from which the markers are secured is unable to meet the great demand which is thrown upon it with the approach of Memorial Day. Mr. Baker has advised all those who have charge of the marking of graves in each of the three wars, to apply to his office at once. After the supply is exhausted no more flags or markers will be received, Mr. Baker has announced.

Markers for the dead of the Civil War conflict will be again distributed through the G. A. R. members. Each year the number of graves of those who fought in the struggle of the rebellion increases and it was impossible for the commissioners to procure (Continued on Third Page)

BABE RUTH AGAIN OUT OF THE GAME

President Johnson Declares
Him Ineligible to Play Pending Investigation of Charge.

THREW DIRT AT UMPIRE

Umpire Hildebrand Makes No Mention of Having Dirt in His Eyes But Says Dust Struck His Shoulder.

(By Associated Press)
Chicago, May 26—Babe Ruth, of the New York Yankees, today was declared by President Ban Johnson of the American League, to be ineligible to play until an investigation had been made of the argument with Umpire Hildebrand which resulted in the Home Run King being put out of the game yesterday and then climbing into the stands when he became offended at booing of the crowds.

Mr. Johnson said an investigation would be made at once and that a final decision would be made by tomorrow. Ruth, however, will not be permitted to play today.

While Mr. Johnson made no official statement concerning the probable length of time Ruth would be suspended, it was learned that the American League chief believed that a one day suspension with an unusually stiff fine added, would be ample for the slugger, who had just returned to the game after a 39-day suspension by Baseball Commissioner Landis for playing post-season games last fall.

Umpire Hildebrand in his report to Mr. Johnson said the decision at second base was not even close and that Ruth threw dirt at him, the dirt striking his shoulder. He made no mention of any dirt getting into his eyes, Washington, May 26—Babe Ruth, Home Run King, said he was sorry and added that "it seemed that a ball player is always wrong" when informed today that Ban Johnson, President of the American League, had declared him ineligible to play until an investigation had been made of the dust-throwing affair in yesterday's game at New York.

ATMOSPHERE OF WAR PERSISTS

Lloyd George Warns House of Commons of Russian-German Military Pact.

WOULD AVERT DANGER

Points Out That Russia Has The Resources, While Germany Could Furnish Armament.

London, May 26—Premier Lloyd George received in the House of Commons last night what is equivalent to another vote of confidence on his Genoa policy, when the House, by an overwhelming majority of 235 to 26, rejected an amendment which was moved for the purpose of expressing the dissatisfaction of the House with the Premier's exposition.

London, May 26—In speaking of the possibility of the rearming of Russia with German assistance, Premier Lloyd George said in the Commons yesterday, emphasizing each word:

"I hope the occasion may never arise making it necessary to go back and refer to the warning I am uttering.

Although peace had been established in Europe, it was quite clear, said Mr. Lloyd George, that the war atmosphere to a certain extent remained.

As for Russia, it was hopeless for her, whatever her government, said the Premier, to expect to extricate herself from the pit of squalid misery without the assistance of the other 30 nations.

Three Alternatives

There were three alternatives in dealing with the Russian situation, Mr. Lloyd George pointed out. The first was force, which had failed. No one had suggested that at Genoa. The second was to leave Russia to her fate.

"But how," he asked, "could we insure Europe against the risks this policy would involve? The Russo-German agreement shows the sort of peril I mean.

"Germany," he said, "could not re-equip Russia economically, not having the capital, but that was not the case with armaments as there was every natural resource in one country and complete technical skill in the other.

"The British delegation," he said, "realized that it was necessary for the peace of the world, whatever was thought of the Soviet Government, that some arrangement with Russia be made in order to enable her to help in swelling the volume of trade on which so many millions depend and in order to give it a sense of stability and security to Europe."

The Russian leaders, said the Premier, quite realized they were not going to get credit from the West upon a basis of confiscation and repudiation of debts. They also knew that Russia never would be restored until she got credit.

As regards details of money advanced to Russia before the revolution, he said, the Russians were prepared to compromise, saying the obligations they accepted would depend upon the assistance received. He said The Hague conference was to be a practical discussion between the experts on the basis of the Cannes resolution. "I am very hopeful," he said, "that when they come down to examination of practical propositions something will be achieved."

DRIVER ROASTED TO DEATH

Chambersburg, Pa., May 26—The gruesome picture of a terror-stricken man, half dazed, sitting on the ground fighting with hands and feet showers of flaming oil that immersed his body was presented to the coroner's jury, investigating the death of Garnet Turner, of this place, driver for the Gulf Refining Company, killed Monday when the oil truck he was driving was struck by a Philadelphia and Reading freight train at Waynesboro.

The testimony of Frank Walters, railroad camp cook, and Isaiah Johnson, laborer, contradicted the general impression current here that Turner was dead or at least insensible when he was roasted alive by burning oil from the exploded tank on the truck.

The jury absolved the railway company from all blame in the death.

FEAR DISPELLED BY DRUG

Philadelphia, May 26—The discovery of a potent and fear dispelling drug was revealed by Dr. H. H. Rusby, dean of the College of Pharmacy of Columbia University, who headed the H. K. Mulford biological expedition which returned recently from a hazardous journey afoot in the Amazon basin. For a long time scientists have heard strange—seemingly mythical—tales about this drug which is used by certain South American natives.

RUTH HURLS SAND IN UMPIRE'S EYES

Bambino Boomed by Fans When Ordered to Showers. Starts After Man in Stand.

New York, May 26—Babe Ruth is in hot water again. Just what the temperature of the water is was a question burning the thoughts last night of 15,000 fans who saw him throw diamond dust in an umpire's face.

The Yankees defeated the Senators, 6 to 4. It was the second game of the series, and Ruth, back in the game after serving a six-week suspension for having gone barnstorming last fall, contributed to the victory.

But the Babe, like all great stars, is temperamental.

After laying down a neat bunt in his first time at bat and advancing the two runners who subsequently scored, Ruth came up in the third and batted a safe one into center. The Babe rounded first and kept going. He made a great slide for second, but Umpire Hildebrand ruled that Rice's throw had reached Harris in time for him to tag the Bambino for an out.

Ruth protested vehemently and then gathering a handful of dust, threw it in the umpire's face. Hildebrand wiped his eyes with one hand and waved Ruth to the showers with the other. On his way from the field, Babe stopped many times in an effort to get the last word. This aroused the displeasure of some of the fans and they booed Ruth as he walked to the Yankee bench.

As Ruth reached the dugout a foghorned voice in the stands roared something which to Ruth was unpleasant. The home-run hitter vaulted the dugout and started for the man who had displeased him.

This fellow fled to a safe spot under the stands and Babe started for the showers. With head bent, he walked slowly, and as he reached the bleachers he looked up to shake his first at those who jeered him. Then the stands let out a great cheer and Ruth doffed his cap and bowed as he disappeared through the clubhouse gate.

A group of fans then started for the man who had shouted at Babe. This individual was requested by police to leave and he did.

The Bambino's attempt to vent his wrath on a booing fan recalled the action of Ty Cobb, the veteran Tiger, who entered the stands in New York 10 years ago and had more success than Ruth in reaching his annoyances. Ty was suspended for 10 days at that time and the incident caused the famed "strike" in the entire Detroit team.

Whether the Babe will draw another suspension or merely a heavy fine depends upon the good-nature of Umpire Hildebrand and the American League officials.

AGAINST LUNCH STANDS

Parks and camping grounds set aside on state forest lands by the state forestry department for the use of motorists have become such popular stopping places that a number of requests have been made to the departments to erect buildings for the sale of coffee, soft drinks and eatables.

The forestry commission has decided that, while it would not take such action now to bar such concession from state lands, it would not permit the erection of buildings either within the park and camping spaces, or at such locations as to spoil the view, and does not intend to let them become too commercialized.

Several buildings now owned by the department are operated as hotels and restaurants for the accommodation of the motoring public, and it is believed that if some arrangement can be devised which will be satisfactory to all concerned, the public camp grounds can be turned into a source of revenue.

Everything provided by the forestry department for the accommodation of visitors at the public parking and camping places is free.

DENIAL ISSUED BY DAUGHERTY

Attorney General's Assistant Declares Shadowing of Congress Members an Untruth.

FELDER WAS INTRODUCED

Senator Watson Declares He Has "Irresistible Influence" Over Attorney General's Department.

Washington, May 26—Coincident with resumption by Senator Watson, Democrat, Georgia, yesterday of the discussion in the Senate of the alleged connection of Attorney General Daugherty with the pardoning in 1912 of Charles W. Morse, a statement was issued at the Department of Justice on behalf of Mr. Daugherty denying that secret service operatives ever had been or were being used to shadow members of Congress.

Warren F. Martin, special assistant and secretary to the Attorney General, referring to a charge of such use of secret service men as made in the Senate Wednesday by Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, said he could say officially for the Department of Justice that any one making such a statement is "guilty of malicious misstatement and untruth."

Hoover And Fall Assailed

Senator Watson, in addition to mentioning Mr. Daugherty's connection with the Morse affair, attacked other members of President Harding's Cabinet, declaring that the Executive "embarrassed" the Senate at the outset of his Administration by asking immediate confirmation of "Secretary Mellon, whom he referred to as probably richer than John D. Rockefeller and who is holding office in violation of laws; Herbert Hoover, the Englishman, and Secretary Fall, who is reeking and dripping with Standard Oil scandal in Colombia the Teapot dome, and in New Mexico."

Senator Watson told the Senate that he had been informed that Mr. Daugherty had ordered dismissed a libel on a British steamer, which he identified as the J. M. Young, and which, he said, entered New York harbor with a cargo of whisky. The dismissal, he declared, was brought about by Mr. Felder, who, the Georgia Senator asserted, came to Washington immediately and conferred with the Attorney General. The Georgia Senator added that he did not understand the "irresistible influence" which Mr. Felder exerted in the Department of Justice.

Calls Statement False

Assailing the Republican majority in the Senate, Mr. Watson declared that its members on the Finance Committee had made "false statements to the country and false statements to the Senate" in connection with the previous soldiers' bonus legislation; called the Republicans "rubbish statement Senators" and charged that the responsibility for delay in action on the tariff bill was "squarely on the President."

The Georgia Senator turned later to a discussion of the action of the Appropriation sub-committee, which has agreed on an Army of 133,000, saying that he could not reconcile that action with statements which he attributed to the Administration that the country should no longer be disturbed by wars and rumors of war.

Queries Use of Army

"Why, I ask, should we have a large standing Army?" the Senator queried. "Is this Government afraid of its proletariat? Is it afraid that the dissatisfied workers will no longer submit to being starved and unclothed? It begins to look like the capitalists want the great standing Army not as a protection against France or England or anybody else, but as a protection against those at home."

WARD ARRESTED; BAIL CANCELLED

Court Orders Slayer of Alleged Blackmailer Returned to Custody.

White Plains, N. Y., May 26—Walter S. Ward, millionaire baker's son, yesterday was rearrested on a charge that he killed Clarence Peters of Haverhill, Massachusetts, an ex-Navy man, near the Kensico Reservoir nearly two weeks ago.

Ward, who dropped out of sight during the day after his bond of $10,000 had been ordered cancelled, was brought to the courthouse by Sheriff George L. Werner about 6 o'clock. The sheriff took his prisoner into the office, closed the door and pulled down the blind. Ward was accompanied by Eliwood M. Rabenold, one of his attorneys.

Order Issued By Court

Ward's rearrest followed issuance of an order by Supreme Court Justice Seeger yesterday at the request of District Attorney Weeks. Mr. Weeks asked the order of rearrest after telling the court that he had discovered discrepancies between the details of the killing as told by Ward and those unearthed by county officials.

The District Attorney said that he did not believe the bail of $10,000 on which Ward had been released was sufficient and Justice Seeger immediately issued the rearrest order, which was directed to Sheriff Warner and all other county officials. He also canceled the $10,000 bail.

Held Without Bail

District Attorney Weeks said that Ward would not be given an opportunity again to furnish bail at this time, but that he would be held until some legal steps were taken in court. The next step, in Mr. Weeks' opinion, will be for Ward's counsel to apply for a writ of habeas corpus. In that event, said the District Attorney, the authorities will be compelled to make known what evidence they have against Ward.

BLIZZARD CASE GOES TO JURY

Night Session Held For Attorneys To Present Instructions.

Charles Town, W. Va., May 26—Evidence was closed yesterday in the treason trial of William Blizzard after nearly four weeks of testimony. A night session was ordered last night at which attorneys presented instructions they asked the court to give the jury. Judge J. M. Woods set six and one-half hours for each side as the time for arguments.

A few brief finishing touches on the testimony of defense witnesses made up the only evidence yesterday. The defense then made a motion once before denied, that the evidence of the State be stricken out and a verdict of acquittal ordered. The motion, as before, was denied.

Altogether the State has used 143 witnesses. The defense, which originally summoned more than a thousand witnesses, has been content with only 27.

enough markers for all. Some of the markers distributed last year are still on the graves, some G. A. R. members say, and for these new emblems will not be furnished.

Last year, G. Harry Roth, Prothonotary of the Courts, had charge of placing the markers on the graves of those who fell in the Spanish-American War and are buried in cemeteries in this county.

The various American Legion posts in Adams county will again this year have committees to decorate the graves of those who fell in the World War or died in camps either on this side or across the ocean and brought home for final interment. It is the plan of the commissioners to supply an American flag for the grave of each man who was killed or died while in the service during the late war.

It was impossible to determine, even approximately, the exact number of bodies which have been brought to Adams county for interment since the end of the war and for this reason, American flags will be sent either upon application in person or writing at once to Mr. Baker.

Bible Thought for Today

A GOOD NAME THE BEST ASSET:—A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favour rather than silver and gold.—Proverbs 22: 1.

TRAIN CREW EXONERATED

Prove They Could Not Avoid Death of H. L. Snyder.

Belief that the employees on the Waynesboro branch of the C. V. division of the P. R. R. exerted every effort to avoid the accident Monday morning in which Harvey L. Snyder of Chambersburg, lost his life was expressed in the verdict of the coroner's jury investigating the accident. The verdict added that no censure could attach to any of the employees.

The inquest was held Wednesday afternoon. Blueprints of the P. R. R. trackage and right-of-way together with photographs of approaches to the grade crossing, where Snyder lost his life, were presented.

All of the witnesses, except one, testified to hearing the train, in charge of Conductor Trail and Engineman Betz, blow for the crossing at the whistle board 500 yards from the crossing. They also told of the three short blasts of the whistle which sounded just before the accident.

Workmen of the maintenance of way department testified to seeing Snyder approach the crossing at moderate speed. The car slowed down, they said, and stopped when the front wheels were across the tracks.

When the train hit the automobile, Engineman Betz testified, he applied the emergency brakes, but the wheels of the locomotive skidded on yeast cakes which had been knocked from the Fleischman company truck Snyder was driving. Betz said he released sand on the rails and again applied the brakes, succeeding this time in stopping the train.

THE RETREAT TO MOSCOW

The MARDI GRAS MYSTERY

H. Bedford Jones

Irwin Myers

A man fears a bullet there worse than death. It may kill you, and it may not; really, I care very little. You—your fiancée!

Scorn leaped into the quiet voice, scorn that lashed and bit deep.

"You money trickster! Do you think I would spare such a man as you? You draw your rents from the poor and destitute, your mortgages cover half the parishes in the state, and in your heart is neither compassion nor pity for man or woman. Bah! I could shoot you down without a qualm!"

In his voice was so deadly a menace that Maillard trembled.

"There is nothing of mine in that safe," he said, his voice a low growl. "I have given it to my son to use. He is not here."

"That," said the Masquer calmly, "is exactly why I desire you to open it. Your son must make his contribution, for I keenly regret his absence. If you are a criminal, he is worse! You rob and steal under shelter of the law, but you have certain limitations, certain bounds of an almost grown honor. He has none, that son of yours. Why, he would not hesitate to turn your own tricks back upon you, to rob you, if he could! Open that safe or take the consequences; no more talk, now!"

The command cracked out like a whip. With a shrug of helplessness the banker turned and fumbled with the protruding knob of the safe. With one exception all eyes were fastened upon this amazing Masquer. The exception was Jachin Fell, who, suddenly alert and watchful, had turned his attention to Maillard and the safe, a keen speculation in his gaze as though he were wondering what that steel vault would produce.

All were silent. There was something about this Midnight Masquer that held them intently. Perhaps some were inclined to think him a jester, one of the party masquerading under the famous bandit's guise; if so, his last words to Maillard had removed all such thought. That indictment had been deadly and terrible—and true, as they knew. Bob Maillard was not greatly admired by those among his father's friends who best knew him.

Now the door of the safe swung open. The compartments appeared empty.

"Take out the drawers and turn them up over the table," commanded the Masquer.

Maillard obeyed. From the last drawer there fell out on the table a large envelope, sealed. The Masquer leaned forward, seized upon the envelope, and crushed it into his pocket.

"Thank you," he observed. "That is all."

"D—n you!" cried Maillard, shaking a fist. "You'd try blackmail, would you?"

The bandit regarded him a moment, then laughed.

"If you knew what was in that envelope, my dear financier, you might be reassured."

The festivities were not broken up. News of the robbery gradually leaked out among the guests; the generally accepted verdict was that the Masquer had appeared, only to be frightened away before he could secure any loot.

It was nearly two in the morning when Jachin Fell, who was leaving, encountered Henry Gramont at the head of the wide stairway. He halted and turned to the younger man.

"Ah—have you a pencil, if you please?"

"I think so, Mr. Fell." Gramont felt beneath his Franciscan's robe, and extended a pencil.

Jachin Fell examined it, brought a paper from beneath his domino, and wrote down a word. The paper was that on which the farewell message of the Midnight Masquer had been written.

"A hard lead, a very hard point indeed," said Fell. He pocketed the paper again and regarded Gramont steadily as he returned the pencil. "Few men carry so hard a pencil, sir."

"You're quite right," and Gramont smiled. "I borrowed this from Bob Maillard only a moment ago. Its hardness surprised me."

"Do you know, a most curious thing—"

"Yes?" prompted Gramont, his eyes intent upon the little gray man.

"That paper you brought us—the paper which you found pinned to the library door," said Fell, apologetically. "Do you know, Mr. Gramont, that oddly enough there were no pin holes in that paper?"

Gramont smiled faintly, as though he were inwardly amused over the remark.

"Not at all curious," he said, his voice level. "It was pinned rather stoutly—I tore off the portion bearing the message. I'll wager that you'll find the end of the paper still on the door downstairs. You might make certain that its torn edge fits that of the paper in your pocket; if it did not, then the fact would be curious! I am most happy to have met you, Mr. Fell. I trust we shall meet again, often."

With a smile, he extended his hand, which Mr. Fell shook cordially.

Upon gaining the lower hall Fell glanced at the door of the library. There, still pinned to the wood where it had been unregarded by the passer-by, was a small scrap of paper. Mr. Fell glanced at it again, then shook his head and slowly turned away, as though resisting a temptation.

LAXATIVE for Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.

BUCKNELL SHUT OUT BY COLLEGE

With Crippled Infield, Coach Plank's Proteges Hand 5-0 Defeat to Visitors.

The College baseball team handed a 5-0 defeat to the strong Bucknell University club on the local grounds before a large crowd, Thursday afternoon. Wise pitched a great game of ball and allowed the Lewisburg boys but four scattered bingles, while Tarr, who started for the visitors was driven from the mound at the end of the third session, when the Gettysburg bats drove over four tallies with as many two base blows and a triple contributed by Decker, who was substituting for Kyle on the initial sack.

Bellack was called in from right field to relieve Tarr and he fared somewhat better, although touched up at times with some long drives. It was with considerable anxiety, that Coach Plank sent his aggregation of ball tossers against the Bucknell club, which has made quite a record this season in collegiate circles. Kyle was missing at first, Bream at short and Mordan on third, all due to injuries received in recent games. Coach Plank used two Freshmen in filling up the breach, and they acquitted themselves in admirable style, Decker at first and Reiter on second. Gingerich was shifted to short and Plowman, who pitched the game against Swathmore on Wednesday was placed on the hot corner.

This makeshift infield worked well indeed and although there were two miscues chalked up against them, yet Wise could not complain about his support. The home club looked especially well at bat. Tarr started wild and before he settled down in the first inning he had passed three batters, but his team mates helped him out of the hole. The game went along without score until the third, when the Gettysburg batters clouted the ball all over the field. Plowman led off with a long double and Keiser duplicated the stunt. Then Decker cleaned house with a triple, but was later caught off third base. Myers drew four balls and Reiter fanned, but Fisher scored Myers with another two base hit. Fisher scored a few seconds later when Wise clouted a two bagger into deep right. Hersh was an infield out.

Gettysburg's fifth score was made in the fifth inning after Fisher grounded out, Wise singled, Hersh walked and Gingerich fanned. Then Wise scored on Plowman's single but Hersh was caught at the plate. Bucknell had little chance at any time to get a runner over the rubber, as only on three occasions did they advance a man as far as third base and then it was impossible to get the necessary hit to bring in the run. Their four bingles were scattered, being recorded in as many innings and with the local collegians playing airtight ball, they had small chance of escaping the coat of whitewash which was theirs.

Supposing Your Housework Increased Ten Fold

in a single day? What would you do about it? Where would you get the extra help? Would all your meals be on time?

That is exactly what happens in the ice business. The days are cool for a while. Suddenly it turns hot. Our customers want five and sometimes ten times as much ice as formerly. AND THEY WANT IT BADLY. Their food spoils without it in a few hours.

We have to meet that demand by making an unusual effort. We have to have the ice on hand, the extra wagons to start out and emergency men who can take hold on an hour's notice.

If your ice wagon is a bit late on a very hot day, bear in mind that everything possible is being done to reach you on time. We will see that you get ice.

You can help us by hanging your card out early, taking ice regularly, and having the refrigerator ready, with no food or bottles in the ice chamber for the driver to take out and put back.

Concrete Farm Improvements That Pay Profits

Good Concrete improvements add a dollars-and-cents value to farm property far in excess of their small cost. They save time, make work easier, help you make more money, improve stock, seldom need repairs and are fire-proof, rat-proof and rust-proof. When you want to build anything, use Concrete—it lasts forever.

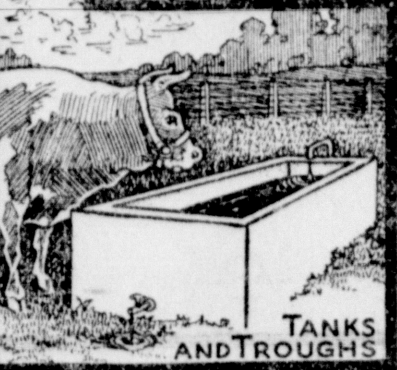

CONCRETE is the farmer's easiest and quickest-to-handle, and least expensive, building material. Less cash outlay is required to build with Concrete because the farmer has on his land, or nearby, almost everything needed. He can do most of the work himself. Special tools and machinery are not necessary. Find out now how little it will cost to put in those improvements you have been thinking about.

SECURITY PORTLAND CEMENT for STRENGTH

CONCRETE will give you more satisfaction for a longer time than any other kind of building material you could use. The right Cement, plus care in its use, makes strong, perfect Concrete. Security is the standard Cement in this locality. Guaranteed up to Government specifications, and used everywhere for roads, bridges, buildings, and every kind of Concrete work. Comes ready to use in any quantity. Our book, "How to Mix and Place Concrete," tells what you'll want to know and gives simple forms for Concrete farm improvements. Get a Free Copy and see how easily good Concrete work can be done by any farmer.

We sell SECURITY CEMENT for every purpose and are at your service with practical help on any kind of concrete work.

Graduation Days Are Here

The proudest moment in a young person's life is when he grasps his High School "Sheepskin" in his hand and he becomes known as a graduate. He has passed a milestone in the progress toward the goal he has set, and is ready for the next step, wherever it might lead.

Do you have a son or daughter that has come to this point in life? Or perhaps there is a boy or girl that you are interested in that is graduating this year. If you have, consider them now with a dainty and useful present as a slight reward for the work they have done.

We have many useful gift suggestions throughout the store that will aid you in selecting what will be suitable.

FOR THE GIRLS

A girl is comparatively easy to select a gift for. Just look over the following list.

Filmy Lingeri—Nothing would suit her better.

Airy Dresses—Just the kind she has had her heart set on.

Sport Apparel—The snappy things that every girl wants.

Silk Hose—She can never have too many pairs.

Neckwear—Gives an added touch that girls like.

Gloves—For her dressed up occasions.

Dress Material—All kinds that she will appreciate.

Jewelry—Where is the girl that has enough?

Hand Bags—To carry her "necessities."

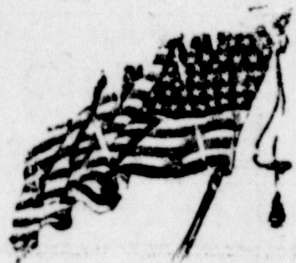

Fancy Scarfs—Every girl wants one.

FOR THE BOYS

There are not so many things that a boy wants but what we offer every one of them can use.

A Common Sense Editorial We Mean It

It is the consensus of opinion that when one speaks—it is not so much what the speaker MEANS that MATTERS. It is what the listener to whom that person is speaking THINKS, which MATTERS.

It is therefore the best policy to SAY exactly what you MEAN and avoid the consequence of being misunderstood.

When we say that our qualities are HIGHEST and our prices are LOWEST—WE MEAN IT.

When we say that our Boys' and Young Men's Clothes and Ralston Shoes are the LAST WORD in STYLE, WEAR, and COMFORT—WE MEAN IT.

When we say that there is a DEPENDABLE GUARANTEE back of every article we sell—WE MEAN IT.
